Objective

The goal is to reach a continuous and high risk adjusted return by trading electricity contracts on the Nordic Power market. The Fund aims to have a minimum correlation to traditional assets in order to offer a tool for diversification in a portfolio of stocks and bonds. Yearly return target is 15 to 25 percent, hence it is to be regarded as a medium risk fund. The goal is to reach this average return on a period of three years rolling or longer. The fund has the right to trade contracts where the underlying asset is a commodity that relate or affects the Nordic electricity price. Primarily this means futures on the Nordic power exchange Nord Pool but also German electricity contracts, emission rights as well as futures on coal, oil and gas.

Manager Commentary

August started with a large move up due to (finally) drier weather (over 8% up in two days). The dry period turned out to be short though and prices continued to slide down. Since we believed in higher prices we gave back our initial profits. When Southern Norway regained some control of their water flows we managed to get back into positive.

Our longer term fundamental view of higher prices has continued to cause losses but the shorter term flow trading has made up it. We are now more neutral in our forecasts and don't see any large upside for the rest of the year.
