Objective

The goal is to reach a continuous and high risk adjusted return by trading electricity contracts on the Nordic Power market. The Fund aims to have a minimum correlation to traditional assets in order to offer a tool for diversification in a portfolio of stocks and bonds. Yearly return target is 15 to 25 percent, hence it is to be regarded as a medium risk fund. The goal is to reach this average return on a period of three years rolling or longer. The fund has the right to trade contracts where the underlying asset is a commodity that relate or affects the Nordic electricity price. Primarily this means futures on the Nordic power exchange Nord Pool but also German electricity contracts, emission rights as well as futures on coal, oil and gas.

Manager Commentary

A very wet period with several low pressures, primarily over southern Norway, caused the minus 2.75% in July. The reservoirs in southern Norway are at very high levels and hydro producers have been forced to spill water (i.e. "wasted water") to avoid overflow. The spot price collapsed in that area down to historical lows. Our bet has been that we would get drier or at least normal weather ahead, causing higher prices. The forecasts did hint that a couple of times but the high pressures never came. We still believe that there is an upside due to the lower reservoir levels in Sweden, the steep price curve up to year 2008 and the weather's tendency to return to mean.
